

Admiral Money appoints Emma Powell as new CEO, with departing CEO Scott Cargill to move to Admiral Group's UK Insurance business

10 Apr 2025

Admiral Group announces that Emma Powell is being appointed CEO of Admiral Money, its personal loans and car finance business, stepping up from her current Chief Risk Officer role (subject to regulatory approval).

Departing CEO, Scott Cargill, is moving into Admiral Group's UK Insurance business as its Pet, Travel and Household Director.

Emma Powell joined Admiral Money in 2016 and has been part of Admiral Money's executive team for nine years, having a key role in driving its continued profitability and evolving its multi-product offering.

Milena Mondini de Focatiis, CEO of Admiral Group, says, "It's fantastic to see Emma step into this role as CEO of Admiral Money as Scott moves to oversee our UK Insurance business' Pet, Travel and Household areas. It's another great example of strong internal mobility that we have always embraced at Admiral Group, and I know both Emma and Scott's vast experience and expertise will bring a positive impact to our customer offerings."

Emma Powell, CEO of Admiral Money, says, "I'm truly excited to step into this role and continue the great work we've done to grow Admiral Money. Scott has been a brilliant mentor for me over the past nine years, and I look forward to the two of us continuing to work closely across the Group as we look to enhance our offerings across our areas."