

We care about our communities and want to be there to help, especially when our customers need us most. We're excited that our UK business, Admiral, has launched its first ever co-branded repair centre in Manchester. In partnership with The Vella Group, the centre will support UK customers in the North get back onto the road as quickly and safely as possible, while providing a great customer experience.

We also believe that we have a key role to play in creating a cleaner, greener planet. As a market leader in electric vehicle (EV) insurance, we want to help our customers transition to a more sustainable lifestyle. We're proud that our newly co-branded repair centre is equipped with specialist tools, EV bays, charging facilities and expert-trained technicians to specifically help our EV customers.

This launch marks the start of a wider rollout, with plans to extend our co-branded partnerships with other trusted partners across the UK as we continually invest in a repair network that supports our growing customer base and helps drive us towards a more sustainable future.
